CLASS RECORDINGS

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor. A "class lecture" is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session. Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To "publish" means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book or magazine.

As part of your Study Abroad experience you will write and submit a two-page (550-word minimum) reflection paper. The student you are now is not the same person who left a few weeks ago. You've had many incredible moments packed into a short span of time and little downtime to think about it all. Taking time to reflect on your experience is important. Your reflection paper must answer the following questions:

- What did you discover about yourself?
- How can you extend this experience into a professional setting?
- Discuss the people you met along your journey.
- What surprised you the most about your experience?
- What did you learn from a challenging situation you faced?

550+ words, double-spaced, 12pt font. This paper is due June 5th at midnight on the Study Abroad Canvas Course. Final grades for your study abroad courses will not be processed until you have completed this paper.

GRADUATE PROJECT

Project Goal

Students taking this course for graduate credit will provide a written analysis of storytelling and modern day marketing.

Required Reading

Storynomics: Story Driven Marketing in the Post-Advertising World by Mckee and Garace.

(I have copies of this book I am willing to lend)

Analysis short answer. Half page to full page for each of the following:

- 1) Discuss the author's theories on traditional advertising and changing landscape and challenges for chief marketing officers.
- 2) Discuss the author's storytelling examples that supported successful marketing efforts. Do you agree or disagree with the thinking? Support your position.
- 3) Demonstrate that you understand the differences between engaging storytelling verses process, hierarchy, chronology and journey-type narratives.
- 4) Discuss the authors eight stages of story design and the role of each.
- 5) Similar to what the authors discuss about the film Moneyball, provide an analysis of a different film and apply the eight stages of story, identifying each part of the story that assisted in keeping the audience engaged.
- 6) On page 77, the authors describe Dove's "Real Beauty Campaign" and why Ad Age named the campaign one of the best of the century. Consider this and provide a modern day example of a branding campaign that has used engaging storytelling to capture and hold attention of targeted consumers.
